SEMPER

Dear colleagues,

Dear students,

Dear 4EU+ community,

Dear guests,

A warm welcome to you all in Heidelberg, where research and academic teaching have been shaping the city since 1386. Heidelberg University is an internationally oriented comprehensive research university. Since its foundation in medieval times, it has been well-rooted in European culture and history, but it is also part of a strong international network and linked with more than 400 universities in the world. The 4EU+ European University Alliance is an excellent example of successful international collaboration, based on a common idea of the European University that builds on academic freedom and autonomy.

Let us use this year's Annual Meeting of the 4EU+ Alliance to further reflect on our understanding of the European University. Let us use the pioneering and creative spirit of our alliance that has been driving us for three years to create something new – for us, for our idea of the university and for our idea of Europe. The European University is neither a project nor a programme: It is a new concept of a university. Its aim is to create structures that make us as six research-intensive universities even stronger in research, even more student-centered in education, and even more attractive in our academic ecosystems and outreach activities.

Together with representatives of European and national institutions, the Annual Meeting offers us the opportunity to look into the future of 4EU+. I would like to encourage you to use the upcoming days to explore our common ground as well as our diversity. Use your curiosity as researchers and students, and your creativity as proactive members of our universities. I invite you to participate, and to contribute to the idea of a European University.

FLAGSHIP 1

HEALTH AND DEMOGRAPHIC CHANGE IN AN URBAN ENVIRONMENT

ROOM: LECTURE HALL UGX60 (BASEMENT FLOOR)

Changing urban environments and demographic development have a direct impact on the health of our citizens. To take on the interconnected issues of an ageing population, increasing urban density and environmental impacts on healthcare demands, Flagship 1 focuses on the development of new multidisciplinary approaches to research techniques, teaching and learning methods regarding this pressing societal topic.

The Flagship is based on the premise that public health has no borders and requires joining forces across universities and disciplines. Urban environments are of central concern here because they are the places where environmental impacts are strongest and population density is highest, but also where research and knowledge transfer are concentrated. Towards common learning pathways in 2022, all the projects in Flagship 1 will support innovative pedagogies, transversal competencies and different ways of meaningful mobility. Flagship 1 focuses on three strategic themes and key projects: cancer, smart cities and COVID-19.

Flagship 1 educational activities focus on students who are interested in urban development and the future of our cities with regard to health issues and the broader effects of demographic change. How will we live in the dense agglomerations that are growing all over Europe? What will our cities look like? How will the social restrictions imposed by the COVID-19 pandemic challenge our urban life habits? Students should especially be concerned about the different lifestyles and health issues in Europe. How can we reduce the vulnerability of people in the face of cancer, epilepsy, or other diseases? How does the care sector need to be developed? How do we reach equal access to health and well-being in Europe?

Flagship 1 provides an excellent framework for sharing ideas and know-how on ways to address the interconnected urban health challenges we are facing across Europe (and globally). By joining forces in education and research and by engaging students across disciplines and borders to participate, the Flagship 1 initiative will be able to come up with new and better solutions (for the future) that are replicable and scalable in various urban settings.

Agenda items

- Review of the last year: Educational projects and Flagship development
- Building a Flagship 1 learning pathway
- Outlook: Strategy and coordination of the Flagship
- Miscellaneous: Discussion of other topics related to Flagship 1

FLAGSHIP 2

EUROPE IN A CHANGING WORLD:
UNDERSTANDING AND ENGAGING SOCIETIES,
ECONOMIES, CULTURES AND LANGUAGES

ROOM: LECTURE HALL UGX61 (BASEMENT FLOOR)

Flagship 2 brings together scholars from various disciplines in the field of the humanities, with the aim of providing an understanding of the concept of “Europeanness”. This umbrella term covers both institutional and grassroots perspectives as well as collective and individual facets of living in Europe and being European.

One of the common denominators among Flagship 2 partners is to foster high-quality research-based education. It aims to provide students with the essential transversal skills defined by 4EU+ as well as discipline-specific skills needed to advance research in the humanities. What unites us is the confidence that only a positive, integrative approach towards education and research will guarantee that the inherent European diversity is maintained while rejecting a construal of uniformity.

While “Europeanness” is a general theme, two notions have been identified to provide Flagship 2 with a unique profile:

- European citizenship – understood as both a legal and philosophical term. Respective research questions and educational programs focus on the tension between the rights that European citizens benefit from and the burden of responsibilities regarding the union. The goal is to understand the sense of belonging and other collective ideas in Europe and how this can be identified by using innovative methods.
- Multilingualism – which, at a general level, concerns the ability of Europeans to communicate with one another. More specifically, this is a phenomenon concerning the individual and societal levels. At the level of individuals, the research questions concern how multiple languages are acquired and taught, at the level of the society, they address the prestige of languages as well as similarities and differences between the European languages.

The potential of the educational and research activities Flagship 2 offers lies in the multi-faceted approach, which not only encompasses distinctive combinations of disciplines and methodologies, but also the specific traditions and perspectives immanent to each of the six universities.

Agenda items

- Structure of two educational pathways: Multilingualism and European Citizenship: modules, courses, credentials, networks involved
- Plan for the open session in December 2021

FLAGSHIP 3

TRANSFORMING SCIENCE AND SOCIETY: ADVANCING INFORMATION, COMPUTATION AND COMMUNICATION

ROOM: LECTURE HALL 02 (GROUND FLOOR)

The Flagship is a novel combination of approaches to tackle questions about big data and computational sciences. Researchers from the network bring expertise and tools developed in their independent research programmes to address this problem. The Flagship has formed a unique interdisciplinary team of researchers with computational expertise.

Flagship 3 will boost research, innovation and teaching by identifying and overcoming current major bottlenecks; by developing new methodologies of model-based data science as a cross-discipline between different fields; and by incorporating this competence into the diverse curricula to be prepared for the data-driven 21st century. It brings together researchers dealing with storage and handling of big data sets, informatics methods to tackle big data sets, and computational methods to interpret the data such as AI/machine learning.

Focus on academic programmes

The Flagship will also cover academic programmes that offer specializations for different fields such as the humanities, the social sciences, bioinformatics/life sciences, and the natural sciences to enable sufficient competencies of handling domain-specific research questions.

The Flagship will apply:

- A core curriculum in computational tools with a special focus on big data management and modern analysis techniques like machine learning and AI
- Specialisations for different fields (e.g. humanities, social sciences, bioinformatics/life sciences, natural sciences) complement the study to allow for sufficient competences in handling domain-specific research questions
- Distant learning concepts, embedding students in multi-university research projects
- Student-organized conferences and summer schools will confront students with real-world problems
- Foster staff exchange between the university partners

Agenda items

- Flagship 3 online courses
- Cooperation with the Advisory Board
- Stronger integration of educational projects into the Flagship

FLAGSHIP 4

BIODIVERSITY AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

ROOM: LECTURE HALL 03 (GROUND FLOOR)

An ever-increasing demand on resources and serious disruptions from climate change are topics that must be efficiently addressed by contemporary science, and which must be based on a deep understanding of the underlying processes and principles. Adequate education of future specialists in the field of natural sciences must be based on high-quality research, while long-term maintenance of the research community cannot exist without top quality education of new generations of researchers.

This Flagship is dedicated to both education and research that will ensure high quality research to find solutions to our sustainable development needs. Flagship 4 includes specific strengths in various areas of life, earth, chemical and environmental sciences. The strength of the cooperation extends beyond the limits of our departments and faculties in all our diversity, which may be combined into synergy and complementarity, and brings new approaches with a wider horizon and novel, high quality results.

Flagship 4 will pursue the following topics:

- Research in the biology of organisms, ecology, biodiversity, and environmental protection, providing a sound basis for multidisciplinary research
- Construct an inspiring, multidisciplinary environment for students, with shared expertise in: academics, teaching-through-research, resources and infrastructures, including well-tailored exchange semesters, summer schools, short intense joint courses
- Contribute to the environmental education of society, in Europe and across the globe, including suggestions and solutions that address complex relationships of society, economy and the environment and the communication of these solutions to a diverse audience

The agenda of the meeting will be announced to members of the Flagship Programme Committee in advance of the meeting.

4EU+ WORKING GROUPS AND WORK PACKAGES

4 NOVEMBER 2021, 9:30–11:30

WORKING GROUP MOBILITY

ROOM: FORMER SENATE'S HALL, NEW UNIVERSITY (SECOND FLOOR)

Tasks and functions

A central objective of the 4EU+ University Alliance is to give students the option to create their own individualized learning pathways and benefit from a wide range of educational offerings, not only at their home institution, but also at all other member universities. In order to achieve this objective, the universities will multiply the opportunities for mobility within the Alliance by extending traditional forms of long-term mobility and implementing new and innovative formats such as short-term mobility and blended and virtual mobility. The mobility options will be applied to all study and training cycles (bachelor, master, doctoral). Student mobility will be complemented by enhanced mobility options for academic and non-academic staff.

The main tasks and functions of the Working Group Mobility are

- to exchange information on regulations and framework conditions for mobility at the six member institutions and on best practice models
- to identify obstacles for mobility and develop proposals for solving these problems
- to develop a framework and common standards for mobility within the Alliance and support their implementation at the member universities
- to function as a contact point and service facility for all project “players”
- to support academics/departments in the implementation of new mobility options
- to provide information and advice on mobility issues for other Working Groups, Work Package groups (especially 2 and 3), and Flagship Projects
- to provide information on mobility issues for the 4EU+ Management Committee.

Agenda items

- Finalizing the ERASMUS+ Agreement (2021–2027)
- Further development and implementation of academic and non-academic staff mobility
- Further development of processes for short term, virtual, and blended mobility
- Opportunities of closer cooperation via ERASMUS+ KA2 projects and Blended Intensive Programmes (BIP)
- Evaluation of Working Group Mobility format and work plan for 2022
- Change of chairmanship of Working Group Mobility

WORKING GROUP COMMUNICATION

ROOM: LECTURE HALL 12A (SECOND FLOOR)

Tasks and functions

The 4EU+ Working Group Communication manages the communication activities of the 4EU+ Alliance. One of the group's main tasks is to raise awareness about the 4EU+ Alliance and its activities among the member universities as well as external stakeholders, including EU institutions, national institutions, universities and other actors on the European and international higher education scene. The group ensures the visibility and accessibility of information on achievements and opportunities offered by the Alliance. It also stimulates a sense of community among researchers, students, and staff of 4EU+ member universities.

Under the Erasmus+ “European Universities” project, WG Communication is mainly involved in Work Package 7 “Sustainability and dissemination”. The development of baseline dissemination tools (such as the 4EU+ website and social medial channels, newsletters and promotional material) and the conducting of campaigns, e.g. on social media and related to the Flagships of the Alliance, are among the key tasks in Work Package 7. WG Communication prepares joint communications, press releases, and reports on 4EU+ communications activities. The group also handles media enquiries related to 4EU+ and has a role in organizing joint conferences and events.

Agenda items

The agenda of the meeting will be announced to members of the Working Group in advance of the meeting.

WORK PACKAGE 2 AND WORK PACKAGE 3

ROOM: LECTURE HALL 12 (FIRST FLOOR)

Tasks and functions

The Coordination Committee of Work Package 2 defines the 4EU+ innovative educational framework, the structure, requirements and general conditions to implement the educational activities throughout the Alliance. It provides consistent information on innovative pedagogies to academic staff, offering a range of approaches, techniques and examples to support the design of the joint educational activities in various formats. It guides the realization of learning pathways that place students “at the centre”, as active protagonists of their learning. It analyses legal issues and obstacles related to educational activities and learning pathways by providing consistent support and feasible solutions. Finally, it prepares students to learn in an augmented campus, facilitating online collaboration during blended and virtual mobility experiences through the definition of a digital student portal, online course catalogues and training.

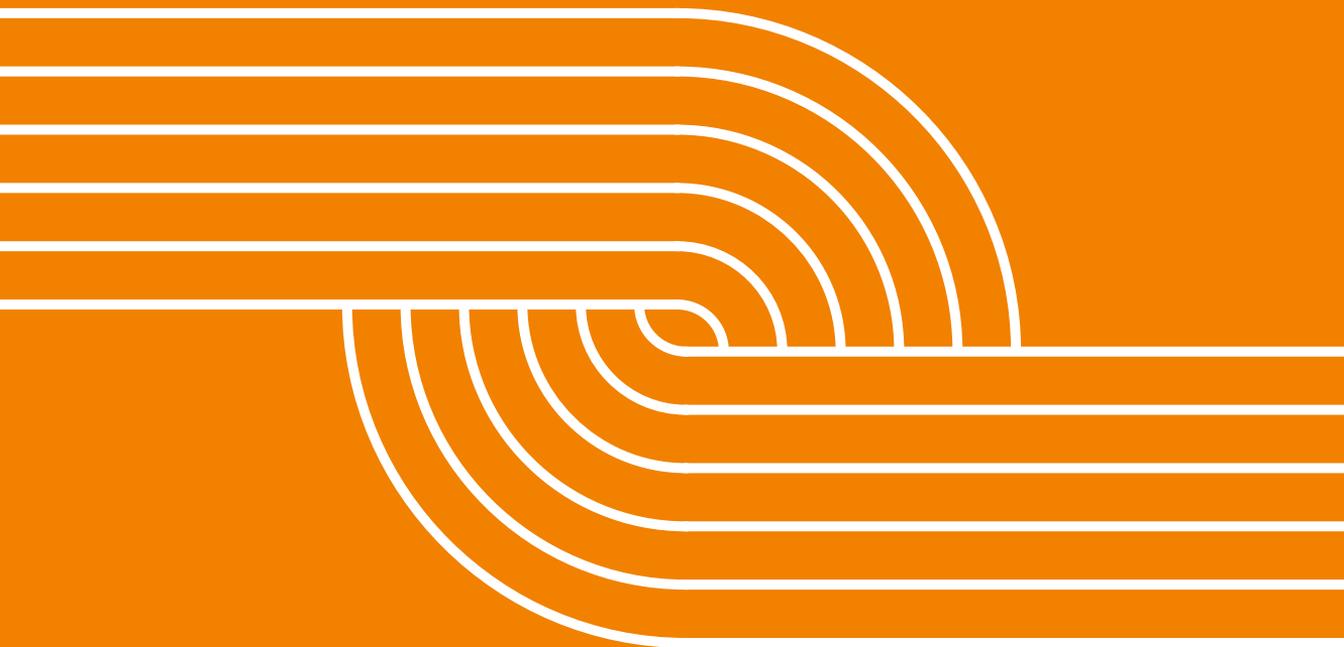

The Coordination Committee of Work Package 3 is generally engaged in deploying a 4EU+ learning pathway, which is linked with the four Flagships. It focuses on the implementation of Work Package 2 outputs into emerging curricula. It enables the creation of a unique offer of research-based and challenge-based study programmes across the 4EU+ Alliance in four Flagships – with the involvement of associate partners and students, besides academics and teachers. The function of the group is also to coordinate overarching activities related to the Flagships, with the aim of supporting and stimulating the Flagship-centred communities. Based on two calls for educational activities, the group supports the development of educational activities within Flagships, so that the result is a study offer that targets all levels of study. This offer should oscillate from short-term study experience to degree programmes and thus form a unique 4EU+ learning pathway.

Agenda items

- Preparation of a roadmap for 4EU+ educational activities

THINK TANKS

4 NOVEMBER 2021, 14:30–16:00

THINK TANKS

The think tanks serve as a platform to discuss key topics with different stakeholders of 4EU+. Every participant of the Annual Meeting is kindly invited to join the talks and contribute with their own expertise. The discussion rounds aim to define basic concepts and positions, as well as goals of the development of 4EU+, in specific fields. Participants are encouraged to share their own insights with other members from the 4EU+ community. The participants of the think tanks occupy different positions in the 4EU+ universities to allow for various perspectives on the topics.

The discussions can also serve as a starting point for further debates. The outcomes of each think tank will be presented during the General Assembly and disseminated within the 4EU+ community.

Think tank 1: How can 4EU+ set an agenda for European Research?

Room: Lecture Hall 02 (ground floor)
