Further information

Dear Colleagues,

Warm greetings to you all by way of this Christmas edition of the Caroline.

Both privately and professionally, Corona certainly constitutes a major challenge for all of us; at this point, I wish you much strength for managing your tasks.

With your support, we managed this year in a good and prudent way. As always, you will find all current information on the Corona website of the university and the serviceportal

Corona is open for your suggestions and questions. Therefore, this newsletter edition will not go into Corona issues any further.

I wish you and your loved ones a reflective advent season, a Merry Christmas and a good start in a healthy and successful year 2021!

Best wishes,

Dr. Holger Schroeter, Kanzler

Dr. Holger Schroeter

New head of Human Resources Division

Since 1st October 2020, Colin Morgenthal has been managing the Human Resources Division and thus succeeded Senni Hundt. In the end, it took some time to find the proven expert in personnel and legal issues.

After his second state examination in law, he worked as an attorney and then at the Catholic University of Eichstätt-Ingolstadt for many years. Here he started in the department of law and then lead the personnel department before moving to the Ruperto Carola.

The Human Resources Division comprises about 50 people and as a service center is responsible for the personnel administration of the employees of Heidelberg University – starting from the advertisement of a job, continuing with recruitments, possible leaves of absence or exemptions to termination of activity. Appointment procedures are coordinated and supported centrally here. Further thematic areas are advanced training and personnel development.

RESEARCH DIVISION

Head
Dr. Sigurd Weinreich

New data base on funding programs, scholarships and science awards

The research Division expands its service range: The new data base research funding information service (“Infodienst Forschungsförderung”) offers information on current funding programs, research scholarships and science awards – matching the research fields and focus of the Heidelberg University (with the exception of medicine). The data base allows the targeted search for international, European, national and university internal tenders, filterable by faculty or department. As central information platform, it complements the D6 Newsletter “INFOR-News”, with the help of which the Heidelberg Research Service informs regularly about research relevant topics and funding programs.

The access to the data base is restricted to university members. Log-in is possible via Uni-ID

DFG – Priority Programme “The Active Self” (SPP 2134)

The Priority Programme brings together cognitive and behavioral scientists from various disciplines, including psychology and robotics, to study the sensorimotor grounding of the human minimal self. The program will seek to unravel the degree to which our self-representation is plastic and sensitive to immediate experience, to which degree it is constrained by past experience, how it integrates experiences of agency and action-ownership, how it affects other cognitive processes, and to what degree self-representation can be established in artificial agents. Application deadline ends 26th January, 2021.
